Kentucky history plates are designed and produced by Jill Jayne Read as a tribute to the beauty and fascinating history of her native state.

The twelve dinnerware sized plates in the series will become heirlooms for future Kentuckians to treasure and pass down from generation to generation. Made in England of fine Chown bone china with the design in either blue or red, these plates may be purchased as a set, or one at a time. They are microwave friendly and dishwasher proof. Price per plate is $75.00, and plates may be purchased securely on-line, or by telephone order.

Information found on these plates was generously provided by the Special Collections Libraries at the Kentucky Historical Society; Transylvania University, Morehead State University, Brandies Papers at University of Louisville Archives and Records Center; Farmington; University of Georgia Main Library; Library of Congress; The Kentucky Encyclopedia, John E. Kleber, Editor; and A History of Kentucky, by Thomas D. Clark.

Special Thanks to Dr. Albert Hester of Athens, Georgia for technical support.
